

From The Mailbag...

My husband and I have just returned to Michigan (brrrrrr) after visiting in Destin for a week. On our return we stopped at a rest area on I-10 west near Fort Walton Beach (I think). It's the one with the Blue Angel jet in front. My husband and I are frequent travelers, usually driving, and have stopped at many rest areas across the country. I'm sure you always hear when something isn't right so I wanted to compliment the employees at this particular rest stop for the excellent job they are doing. It is the nicest, cleanest, most welcoming rest area we've ever stopped at and should our travels take us that way again, we most certainly would choose to stop at this one.
